From The Rector: Comments on the Episcopal Church in Brasil

History of IEAB

Anglicans have celebrated their liturgy in Brazil since the beginning of the 19th Century, under the guidance of the Church of England. Those were the first non-Roman churches.

The Episcopal Church began to move towards Brazilians in 1890, when two American missionaries, Lucien Lee Kinsolving and James Watson Morris, organized a mission in Porto Alegre. These were also the first of four Priests who had graduated from Virginia Theological Seminary to come to Brazil. Lucien and James had served as seminarians assigned to St. Mark’s in the Groveton area of Alexandria, Va. The first service in Brazil was held in the afternoon of June 1st 1890, Trinity Sunday, in Porto Alegre. William Cabell Brown, John Gaw Meem, and the teacher Mary Packard were missionaries who also arrived from Virginia, the year after the mission was started. These five people are considered to be the true founders of the Episcopal Anglican Church of Brazil. In 1965, the Brazilian Church became fully autonomous, becoming the 19th Province of the Anglican Communion. The independence of the Episcopal Anglican Church of Brazil was completed with financial independence from the U.S. in 1982.

Women were allowed to be ordained in 1984. The first woman ordained was the Rev. Pat Powers in 1985. The second was the Rev. Beverly K. Weatherly, who was serving in Brasilia. Currently, over 30% of the clergy is composed of women, including both deacons and priests. Today, the Episcopal Anglican Church of Brazil is composed of churches, missions and educational and social institutions in more than 150 different towns in Brazil. The Church counts more than 100,000 baptized members and 45,000 confirmed ones.
